

ONLINE | Master of Professional Education (MPed) | Two Years

Field of Applied Behavior Analysis

The MPed in the field of Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) is appropriate for both clinical and educational settings. Students learn how to apply acquired knowledge and skills to both typical and atypical populations with developmental disabilities, anxiety and mood disorders and disruptive behavior disorders. They are introduced to context-specific best practices and cutting-edge research that emphasizes the application of theory to practice.

Students also have opportunities to view practice within context, and will be expected to participate in practice throughout their coursework to assist them with the application of theory. This program builds towards a final capstone project and is recognized by the Behaviour Analysts Certification Board.
